

New website makes dentistry fun for children

DPAS are a leading provider of practice branded dental plans and are supporting their new Children's Plan with the launch of an interactive website designed especially for child patients. Explaining the importance of regular brushing to children is a vital part of their health education, and DPAS's new website is both fun and educational.

Designed to make children feel more relaxed about visiting the dentist and better informed about oral health, this free and easy-to-use website is an attractive and effective learning resource and is designed to significantly develop a child's knowledge of foods that have a positive and negative effect on the health of their teeth.

The website also features an informative but user-friendly parent area, which provides useful information about dental health and hygiene, as well as crucial advice for parents on what measures they should be taking to make sure that their children maintain healthy teeth.

The new website is available at www.gr8smileclub.co.uk. For more information on the services that DPAS provide please call 01747 870910 or visit www.dpas.co.uk.
